Zearalenone (ZEA) is the most prevalent mycotoxin in the world. ZEA has been shown to be immunosuppressive but is also a potent carcinogen. The purpose of this study was to evaluate ZEA metabolism and tolerance to dietary ZEA in a rat model. ZEA metabolism in Sprague-Dawley rats fed ZEA was evaluated. Although Sprague-Dawley rats and Fischer 344 rats show different metabolic ability to ZEA, rats of both strains were shown to metabolize a large percentage of ingested ZEA. ZEA fed to Fischer 344 rats also caused tumours in the liver and mammary glands. Fischer 344 rats were used in a second experiment to evaluate both general and organ-specific tolerance to dietary ZEA. Although tumours were observed in the liver, mammary glands, and forestomach of Fischer 344 rats given a carcinogenic dose of ZEA, no tumours were observed in rats fed ZEA. Although ZEA hepatotoxicity in the Fischer 344 rat has been reported, a large portion of the ingested ZEA is metabolized, and tolerance to dietary ZEA was induced as indicated by the lack of tumour formation.WONDER woman Maggie's Story of Breastfeeding, at 28 months, is a move to cause a stir WONDER woman Maggie's Story of Breastfeeding, at 28 months, is a move to cause a stir Christine Mooney

2011 keyQ: What is the probability that the coordinates of a node in a random graph are smaller than the coordinates of the most external node?

I'm reading a problem in which a random graph is shown (figure). I guess I need to calculate the area under the Venn Diagram, which will be the number of colored nodes (blue and red in this case), since the probability that I need to calculate is: $\frac{n}{(n-1)^2} * (1 - \frac{1}{(n-1)^2})$

However, this value is greater than 1, but in the answer, it says that the number of blue nodes is greater than the number of red nodes, which means that the blue node is greater than the red node (since they're half of the nodes). Could you please explain what is wrong in my reasoning? A:

Please note that the number of red nodes and blue nodes are equal in this problem since $\frac{n}{(n-1)^2} = \frac{n-1}{(n-2)^2} =$

$\frac{1}{(n-2)^2} = \frac{2}{n(n-1)} \geq \frac{1}{n-1}$ Also, the number of red nodes in this problem is the number of nodes in the shaded red set, which is $\binom{n-2}{2}$, but you made a mistake by assigning n to $(n-2)$ twice in your numerator. The correct way to calculate the shaded red set would be $n-2$ and $n-3$ of the vertices on the shaded red node since the red node has degree 2 .

Therapeutic gene delivery by viral vectors. Viral vectors are among the most promising vectors for gene therapy due to their intrinsic ability to transfer DNA. However, the genetic instability and potential immunogenicity of the viral vector cause difficulties when using the vectors clinically. Recently, research has focussed on the use of non-viral gene transfer systems to circumvent these problems. The specific characteristics of non-viral vectors have been compared with those of viral vectors. Non-viral vectors including
