I'm really disappointed in WvW. Up to this point I was really enjoying the game and had quite a few nights playing. But because of the WvW (With Vladimirovich) interface, I don't see how I would even begin to end my days. It's extremely cumbersome to use. Here is how I would play: 1) First off, I click on "Begin Combat" or "The Combat Ended" button (and sometimes I want to observe the combat. You can't do that with the WvW button at all, you have to click on the foot and then click WvW. 2) Then you can press the combat button to initiate combat and hopefully land some damage 3) After that is... somewhere I lost the game. To start the combat again I have to click on the foot again and then click WvW. I realize that to some of you this is obvious but I'm pretty sure I'm just missing something here. 4) Finally I'm left with the WvW button because I'm all out of combat. If I want to do an Observation (what the hell is that?) then I click on the WvW button for that too. It's a giant pain in the ass, I'm not sure I'd be able to play WvW c9d1549cdd

   - Network error 10060 « Reply #20 on: July 03, 2007, 05:01:27 » This is because of software: the frontpage server was down for a second due to a module reload, and then i made a stupid mistake on the modules.conf file where the frontpage info was pointing to the wrong directory. In my defense, it had been about 6 months since i had touched that file. To remedy this, i made a backup modules.conf, and executed agame.py --update, which is to reload all the modules in the game, but i removed the line that told it where to find the modules file, so now, the directory and filename for the mail modules is flawed, which is why i got an error. Sorry about that. i have fixed the game, and all the current games should function as they should. on the OSX build, in the past i had seen commands that had given results of black or otherwise this i don't know why but something is going wrong when on mac os and not on windows, i just dont know what is going on. fixed my mac os build/port and it's working as it should, the cause of this release was that it took a long time to compile on a mac os machine and so i gave up. so i am back to porting on windows again. im trying to narrow it down, but still cant determine what is wrong for some reason it won't work on my new machine, but on my old one it does. Hey i got that working pretty straight forward, no idea what respro is doing its for windows or linux I dont know but had the same issue on the linux port that they didn't have back in the days there were also problems but i don't know what it was they changed everything, Hmm, this show some good looking code, but I'm not able to open it with eclipse. I get the same error - "Error/Syntax". When I remove the line - File "Modules.path = " ++ modulesDir ++ "models/models.sol" ++ " - in main.scs, my editor opens without an error. It seems to me that something is wrong when opening a scs file. If you look there are two commands that are the error. The first one ## get-models ## {"$" path =
