We don't want to make a cute game! We just want to make a fun game! We understand that you are about to make Geometry Dash your first game, and some of you are not very good at making games, so we'll give you some tips to help you out. About the Editing Tips: There are in-game tips for you to learn from other players. As you unlock more levels, more tips will be unlocked for you.

Editing Tips • There are four things to edit: - Coordinates - Floors - Height - Speed
Coordinates: Coordinates are mostly placed in certain areas of the level. You can also see the coordinates on the map. • Floors • Floor items always take up one quarter of the screen, and they have one tile that they move up or down. • Floor tiles are divided into four colors, each having a different speed. • When two or more colors touch, they will briefly stick together, and when they stick together, they'll move into the lowest coordinate, that the top color stopped at. • The two tiles will stick together as long as the color of the lower tile is quicker than that of the upper tile. • Depending on the ratio of colors on the floor, the slower one will actually get on top of the faster one. • If the ratio is 1:3 or 1:5 (1:x) • If the ratio is 3:3 or 5:5 (x:x) • It's 10:10 or 1:1 • It's 3:3 or 5:5 (1:1) • It's 10:10 or 1:1
Height: Height is something that can't be edited in Geometry Dash, but can be edited in most of the other games. In Geometry Dash, height is limited to half the screen, and it can only be changed by jumping. • Jumping increases the height. • Jumping decreases the height. • Jumping on the floor decreases the height. • You can only jump if you are higher than the minimum height in the level.
Speed: • Speed determines how high you can jump and what tiles you can connect to. • You can increase the speed by editing the speed on the fly. • If you edit the speed, it also increases the number

Total Party Kill is a game about three heroes who must work together to overcome a variety of deadly puzzles, traps, and monsters! Each hero comes with their own unique special ability and you must utilize them to be successful throughout the entire game! Key Features: An evil necromancer, a brain-crazed scientist, and an enterprising armory owner all compete for the control of the party! Pick your favorite hero and prepare for a totally new adventure where you work together to solve puzzles! Total Party Kill is a party game in which the main objective is survival. You need to constantly sacrifice your friends to complete levels. Luckily, each of your companions have a unique ability that can help you save the day! Ludum Dare 43: This game was made for the Ludum Dare 2013 game development competition in the theme "Sacrifices must be made" where you have 5 days to make a 2D puzzle game. The evil necromancer has once again returned and brought everything that we stand for! An evil necromancer, a brain-crazed scientist, and an enterprising armory owner all compete for the control of the party! Pick your favorite hero and prepare for a totally new adventure where you work together to solve puzzles! Total Party Kill is a party game in which the main objective is survival. You need to constantly sacrifice your friends to complete levels. Luckily, each of your companions have a unique ability that can help you save the day! Ludum Dare 43: This game was made for the Ludum Dare 2013 game development competition in the theme "Sacrifices must be made" where you have 5 days to make a 2D puzzle game. This is a re-make of total party kill and its sequel. It adds new characters, new weapons, new levels, new soundtracks and new art. Shiny hero levels can now be played as a 3rd person shooter. Before getting into the game proper let me tell you a bit about the development of the game. For the LD43 entry we were given a theme of 'Sacrifices must be made'. We were tasked with creating something that was completely our own, something we had decided was a joy in its creation and not a chore. This meant lots of work in a short time to get it all done.

Once we had the theme nailed, development was hugely sped up. Before the theme was even announced we were already preparing the basic assets
