Hi all, I am receiving "possible an invalid object" error when attempting to save a new profile in Windows 10. The error is only occurring on my Surface pro 3 (my laptop also experiences the same issue, I can switch between the two computers and the issue is on both) and occurs when attempting to save or create a new profile. Many users use this to their advantage by downloading the preview version and find ways to get free upgrades. Of course, users don't have to participate in the Windows Insider program and can just wait for the final version to be released. Windows 10 is currently available to Windows Insiders and can be downloaded for free. With its rich list of features and other improvements, Windows 10 is a compelling operating system that has earned a lot of praise. But now, it's up to Microsoft to gain back some of the lost market share. Microsoft has been getting a lot of heat from gamers with
