I found this one a while ago and thought i would post it. This is just a piece of software for burning EXE's, ISO's and VCD's. It will allow you to create a burn package for your music, movie, and other material and then save it to a file. There is no need for a PC with the right specs (pros and cons there are more than enough sites to read about the differences in mac and PC) a home computer, laptop, or netbook could easily be used as long as it has a USB port. Mac computer [youtube]http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Wn7qe23L-Tw[/youtube] 1. Download the file using the default option.2. You must have a USB drive or a flash drive of 2GB size or more. Windows computer 1. Download the file using the default option.2. You will need a USB flash drive of at least 2GB size. It may ask for you to press a button to proceed but you don't really need to. Go to the folder where the file is saved and double click on it. Now you will be presented with a GUI like the one below. Make sure that you select the USB drive from the drop-down menu and hit the Burn button. Now you will be prompted to input a name for the package. It is recommended to use the same name as you selected when you downloaded the file. Now you will have to input the size of the package. You can use the default option, or you can add some information to it. That is it. You will then need to let it run (see the video for more details). Those instructions should work for both Mac and Windows computers. The folder where the file is saved should be the same drive as the USB Flash drive you are using. If you are not sure where the file is being saved, you can look at the beginning of the file in the Windows folder or Mac Finder. A path would also be listed if you have the drive connected to your computer. thank you,but my USB is 8GB which is the size of 4 DVD,so you can tell me how this will work.I have a lap top and it won't work with the USB of that size.thank you &lsep;I found this one a while ago and thought i would post it.
