Very few reviews exist for this game that are anything close to objective. The game was reviewed at several gaming websites, and it seems that all of them have a hand in either actively or passively pumping their own games. The biggest beef is that several reviews don't mention the main feature of the game; the four player gameplay. Only a handful of websites had a final grade score; and that was on a 4.8 to 5.0 scale. The most common complaint was the occasional mouse lag issue that was present in the game. This could be due to the mouse having to be tethered, a problem that should be easily fixed by release of a patch, and the same problem can be found in other reviews that have posted since. An issue that should be corrected in a patch. When used with an XL-A2 controller, the lag is extremely rare, but could still be an issue in some instances. It's best to go into the game with your own expectations,
