The present invention relates generally to systems for maintenance and/or repair of commercial aircraft. More particularly, it relates to a combined maintenance system and repair facility. An aircraft manufacturer is exposed to a variety of risks after a commercial aircraft is built and delivered to a customer. This risk exposure includes a risk that the aircraft will be damaged and/or in need of repairs which are not performed in time to avoid excessive downtime for the aircraft. U.S. Pat. No. 6,938,146 discloses a combined maintenance system and repair facility for an aircraft. The combined maintenance system and repair facility is based on a transformation of an empty (and therefore not usable) hangar bay into a multiple bay maintenance and repair facility and a complete overhaul facility for the aircraft. The maintenance and repair facility comprises, for example, multiple bays for separate maintenance and/or repair of the aircraft and multiple bays for replacement of components of the aircraft. The transformation involves demolition of walls and platforms in the hangar bay in order to facilitate installation of an equipment rack for the aircraft and integrating the aircraft into the same equipment rack. At least some of the replacement parts are kept on site. An entire or some of the transformation takes place in a building, for example, a facility for complete overhaul of the aircraft. While this solution helps to minimize the cost of space and thereby reduce the overhead for maintenance and repair services of the aircraft, it also increases the cost for complete overhaul of the aircraft. This is particularly true with respect to the investment costs for the building and facility for complete overhaul.

Q: How do I make the current Google Maps API working with Raphael.js I am trying to use Google Maps and Raphael.js for interactive maps in a web page. I have the maps loading fine, and I can center and zoom the map correctly, but the markers are not displaying. What am I missing? Markers are added to the map by creating circles with a custom.attr command. I believe the maps that are created by Raphael.js are not being displayed correctly with the new Google Maps API. var map; var _centers=[]; var _markers=[]; var _map; var _mapDiv = $('#map'); var _container = $('#container'); var i, j; var _marker; var _mapOptions = { zoom: 12, streetViewControl: true, mapTypeControl: true, panControl: false, zoomControl: true, zoom: 8 } map = new GMap2( document.getElementById("mapDiv"), _mapOptions ); $.get
