Decrypts text or files containing sound from voice. With VoiceCipher all you need is a voiceprint of a file or a file you want to read. The software will read the voiceprint and use the data to create a unique key that will be used to decrypt the file. VoiceCipher uses the strongest encryption algorithms available. No idea what it is? Simply speak the phrase and the application will match the pronunciation to an audio sample. If you pronounce it correctly, the application will decrypt the file for you. Don't have a voice to speak to VoiceCipher? Try the sample voice over at To read text, apply a voice to the encrypted text, listen to it and verify it by speaking back the correct text. 15:31 The YC Startup Curated Marketplace We are the curators of the world's best startup ecosystem. encryption program. Perhaps a better name would be voice cloaking program. For example, Google voice cloaking. It's not clear if this is what you're actually looking for. A: Voice recognition program? If the client has a speech recognition engine (such as WAVOACT), you can send the string to be encrypted via the encrypted delivery channel (such as encrypted email or encrypted FTP) and then send the string back to the user, who hears his/her voice on the client side. If the client does not have a speech recognition engine (such as WAVOACT), you can generate a file with the string (say, a.txt file) and send it to the user, who reads the string from the file (on the client side). If the client is on the client side (such as a desktop PC or mobile device), the client can encrypt the plaintext password using Cipheasy. Candida albicans is a species of fungal microorganism that is present in humans as a commensal, but can also cause systemic infections and/or life threatening invasive disease. These infections are typically associated with a compromised immune system, such as occurs in a hospital setting (e.g., intensive care, neonatal, hematology-oncology or transplant, or HIV wards), a long-term care facility (e.g., nursing home, or long-term care hospital), or use of immunosuppressive therapy. Patients with a compromised immune system and implanted medical devices (such as intravascular catheters, or prosthetic heart valves) are especially at risk for invasive candidiasis. Candida spp. are second only to Aspergillus spp. as a cause of fungal infections in humans. C. albicans is the most common cause of infections in patients with an impaired cell-mediated immunity, such as is seen in those with: a history of hematologic malignancy, after receipt of an organ transplant, after chemotherapy, or after administration of immunosuppressive agents for rheumatic disease. Candidiasis is also increasingly being recognized as a cause of morbidity and mortality in the pediatric population, especially in premature infants and patients with malignancies, bone marrow transplants, diabetes mellitus, and those undergoing immunosuppressive therapy for various chronic diseases.
