It's all part of an art installation called "Takkrörbilden"—Swedish for "The Image-breaker"—a big collaboration between various artists and IKEA to create a "physical poem" on the street in the little town of Avesta, Sweden, which lies below the surrounding national park. According to the IKEA website: Out in the middle of the night, they will pull down the giant light board and replace it with another. The activity will continue for three weeks, on the first weekend of September. At other times of the year, there will be different activities for the public, such as poetry readings and concerts. You can also try to use BWX Runner for Mac. I have tested it and it works fine with most \*.nzb files (works for me). But it looks outdated. Hope it works for you. Q: Projection of unit circle Consider  $\lambda > 1$  and find the projection of the unit circle on the line  $y=0$ . Now the projection is an arc of a circle. I've never seen projections like this. So I'm a bit lost now. A: We have  $\frac{\lambda}{\sqrt{\lambda^2-1}} \cdot (\lambda - \sqrt{\lambda^2-1})$
