On April 1st 2020, Adobe made a change to a licensing fee on software subscription packs: non-personal/home use (Business/Corporate) versions of Photoshop, Lightroom, Adobe Illustrator, InDesign and After Effects are now $99.99 per user per month. Even if you're using it in small amounts, that $99 per user per month can quickly add up. The change came to light when Photoshop users on Twitter noticed the switch after the Adobe Photoshop World event. In an effort to save hundreds of thousands of dollars over the coming years, I have created a free (as in freedom) subscription that allows you to download and use Photoshop on up to three computers at a time (up to 3 CPUs) at no charge. To get started, follow this link and click on "Get Started" on the right side. You'll be able to select the license type, whether to get or start a trial, and pay the recurring monthly fee (starting at $5 per person or $25 per household). In a recent post, I explained that Photoshop costs $200-$300 to lease. I also explained how to use the deal above to get started and save money. You will receive a confirmation email shortly after you sign up. Then, you will get a bill at the end of the first month. You can cancel at any time. To make sure you are getting the best deal, I suggest signing up for the pro subscription to make sure you are getting the pro version without the upgrade. The $5 price is based on the tax rate of the state you are in (about $18 per month or $96 per year). The $15 price per month is based on the tax rate of the state you are in (about $60 per year). The $25 price per month is based on the tax rate of the state you are in (about $84 per year). This deal still works if you are a school or education company. Any employees who want to use it can save thousands of dollars over the coming years. Follow this link to get more details and to see if the deal still works for you. The free version comes with a 30-day money back guarantee. If you find that the program does not work for you, or if it does not work in the way that you expected, simply request a refund within the first 30 days of your 05a79cecff

922 F.3d 432, 438 (7th Cir. 2019) (“In the Indiana statute, the touchstone is the possession of the contraband.”). A defendant can be convicted of possessing a firearm despite the fact that he did not have actual possession. United States v. McFarley, 991 F.2d 1188, 1195 (7th Cir. 1993). Instead, we have held that constructive possession may be properly found when a person “knowingly has both the power and the intent to exercise dominion and control over a thing.” Id. Constructive possession of firearms requires not just ownership but some form of dominion and control over them. The government must establish that the defendant had “dominion over the premises where the firearm was discovered” and that the defendant had “dominion over the [firearm].” United States v. Hampton, 585 F.3d 1033, 1043 (7th Cir. 2009). Mr. Nichols asserts that he cannot be convicted of possessing the revolver because the government did not prove that he had constructive possession of the weapon. He notes that he was a non-possessor when the agents searched his No. 19-1241 Page 4 apartment. Mr. Nichols argues that he could not have been found guilty of possessing a firearm under § 922(g)(3) because the firearm was found in another person’s apartment. Mr. Nichols’ argument fails because it is based on a “misunderstanding of the elements of the crime with which he was charged.” United States v. Smoot, 626 F.3d 914, 915 (7th Cir. 2010). A defendant cannot have constructive possession of a firearm if the Government proves that he had actual possession of it. See United States
